A Letter from PRINCIPAL MIKE WINTERS

Dear Bishop Hartley Alumnae and Alumni:

I would like to take this opportunity to greet all of you as you read news of your beloved alma mater. Our pledge to provide the best Catholic education for children on Columbus' east side continues to resonate loud and clear. Our school from its founding has stressed excellence, defended traditions, and honored legacies…in this there is no compromise or change.

We are driven by the desire to give our young people the very best - be it prayerful reflection through retreats, academic preparation, facility enhancements, or the security of a safe environment for everyone. Last year, we welcomed Dr. Sharon Murphy as a full-time clinical psychologist in order to provide a full range of mental health services. This year, Bishop Hartley will once again be at the forefront of Diocesan Catholic education. We are proud of the multi-purpose facility being built this summer and fall. This facility will provide additional space for classrooms, retreats, a weight room, and an auxiliary gym.

In August, Bishop Hartley opened its doors for the sixty-second year with the same dedication to Catholic education as the good Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur did in year one.

Last year's theme reminded the entire Bishop Hartley community of a belief long held in the hallowed halls of Hartley: the importance of combining both academic preparation and gospel values that touch our hearts such as kindness, forgiveness, empathy, inclusion, and hospitality to name a few.

In paraphrasing Gandhi, this year's theme stresses that everyone in the Hartley community contributes to the culture of our school. Students, teachers, administrators, parents and staff need to positively impact our culture, so our learning environment is at its very best.

"A [school's] culture resides in the hearts and souls of its people."
-Gandhi

If there is anything we can do to help you, please don't hesitate to contact us. Please be sure to keep our alumni association up to date about what you are doing using the link on our web site.

Sincerely,

Michael R. Winters
Principal

ALUMNI OFFICE updates

ALUMNI DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

As we wrap up 2018 and start to focus on 2019, I want to thank our alumni. Over the past three years our alumni have held 22 reunions, requested and taken 28 tours of the school and continue to support Bishop Hartley as we grow. I'm so proud to be both an alumnus of Bishop Hartley and a part of our school which is thriving spiritually, academically, and athletically.

As we continue to feature alumni in the Alumni Herald, we need your help. Send us stories and updates of the amazing things you or other alumni are doing to make the Bishop Hartley community proud. Nominate alumni for our Alumni Wall of Distinction and the Athletic Hall of Fame. Come back to Bishop Hartley and take a tour; you will be surprised by how our campus has changed. Join us for upcoming events, socials or a game.

As the Alumni Director, I am here for you. If you need help with reunion planning, event schedules, donating memorabilia or simply stopping by to visit, I will make time for you. It's because of you that Bishop Hartley continues to be the best Catholic High School in Ohio. Visit our website at bishop-hartley.org for updates and news.

Forever a Hawk.

KEEP US INFORMED

The Alumni Association is continually updating our alumni database. There are over 9,000 alumni, however, we only have approximately 2,500 on record. If you have changes to your contact information, please email us at bhalumni@cdeducation.org. Also, if you are aware of other alumni who have changes, please contact us at the above email.

WHERE IN THE WORLD are the Hartley Hawks?

Bishop Hartley alums live all over the country! Some even live in Canada. Ohio boasts the most Hawks, but Florida is another heavily populated Hawk state. If you are an alum and have moved, please let the Bishop Hartley Alumni office know. See above for details on how to keep the school informed.

Outstanding Volunteer Service

MARY GEIST service award

Bishop Hartley High School honored Mr. Keith Smith of the Hartley Community, Thursday, February 1, 2018 with the presentation of the Mary Geist Service Award. Keith and his wife Michelle have sent four children to Bishop Hartley: Madeleine (Maddie) '12; Alexandra (Allie) '13; Michael '17; and Audrey who will graduate in 2019.

The Mary Geist Award is given annually during Catholic Schools Week to individuals who have been of exemplary service to the school and its extended community. Geist was extremely active in service to her church and to Bishop Hartley, coming to Hartley as a volunteer in the early 1970s after her retirement and serving until her death in 2003. She was the first recipient of the award in 2000.

Keith Smith has donated hundreds of hours of labor maintaining the Hartley softball and baseball fields. In addition, he has provided equipment to assist in maintenance of fields. When the school established the Bishop Hartley Athletic Hall of Fame in 2014, Mr. Smith handled all landscaping needs for the Hall of Fame dedication at Jack Ryan Field.

PROTECTING OUR athletes

One of the most important roles as a coach or athletic director is to make sure our athletes are safe. When an athlete participates in a sport, there is always a risk for injury. Bishop Hartley coaches have been certified not only in how to treat an injury, but also techniques on how to limit injuries. Pregame warmups and post-game stretching aid student athletes in preparing their bodies to play and cool down properly. There are several exercises that strengthen ACL and MCL ligaments to help prevent damage. Our goal as coaches is to prevent injuries by strengthening athletes' bodies through proper nutrition and training.

Bishop Hartley also takes their student athletes' heart health very seriously. We have contracted with MCORE over the last three years to offer our athletes heart scans. Although heart issues are very rare in younger athletes; they do occur. These scans can identify heart defects and issues prior to an unexpected event occurring. Sudden Cardiac Arrest has been a hot topic for several years now, and MCORE has designed these tests and scans to identify issues before they become life threatening. To find out more about MCORE, visit their website at https://mcoreathletes.com. Go to bishop-hartley.org to find dates and times for the next MCORE screenings.

CULTURE

"A [school's] culture lies in the heart and soul of its people." Our school theme, paraphrased from Gandhi, captures the essence of Bishop Hartley High School. Our people make the difference, and this year, we are all focused on creating the best culture possible for our school. Beginning with a faculty professional development session prior to the start of the school year, Principal Mike Winters has called attention to what makes up school culture and how those who are part of it can make a difference. Bishop Hartley is strongly rooted in the "anchors" of culture: Values, Beliefs, and Traditions. Those anchors, however, are only the start. As Jon Gordon, noted author and speaker on issues related to leadership, culture, and teamwork, points out, "School culture is defined as the values, beliefs, and traditions that have formed over years, coupled with new initiatives that keep a school relevant and meaningful."

The first step toward a school culture is to establish a safe foundation for our students; this includes both physical and psychological safety. Everyone within the community needs to have a sense of belonging which must be reinforced and refreshed on an ongoing basis. The physical safety portion of this step must come first. We continually address this issue at Bishop Hartley (please see the safety article in this issue of the Hawkeye). Teachers strive to establish classroom atmospheres based on mutual respect and support to address each student's psychological safety. Just like the physical safety component, the steps toward psychological safety are continually reviewed and revised as needed. Teachers studied the model of Gregg Popovich, Air Force Academy graduate and NBA coach, who emphasizes personal and up-close attention, performance feedback, and the big-picture perspective. We need to be sure students know that we care about them; we have high standards, and life is bigger than what we do here.

The second step in development of a strong school culture is an environment which allows all to share vulnerability. Daniel Coyle, author of The Culture Code, stated that, "Exchanges of vulnerability, which we naturally tend to avoid, are a pathway through which trust and cooperation are built." As classroom leaders, it is important for our faculty members to show vulnerability first, so students feel comfortable doing the same. This vulnerability could be as simple as saying, "I don't know the answer to that question; let me look into it and get back to you." As a follow up to strengthen this part of our culture, teachers are participating in "flash mentoring." Through the weekly faculty news bulletin, teachers let others know when they have something going on in their classroom which may be of interest to them. Those who are interested and available simply visit those classes to see another teacher in action (and perhaps earn something new – about the subject area or about students they haven't seen in another context). Since this is an informal process, teachers follow up after the lesson as they see fit.

The third skill in the development of a strong school process is for all those involved to establish a strong sense of purpose and tell a story. All faculty and staff members have posted a list of goals for the year within their "space" in the building. In addition to preprinted goals, supplied by Mr. Winters, each has added his or her personal goals to the poster. This serves not only as a visible reminder to each faculty and staff member, but a public commitment to all.

A strong school culture requires deliberate, ongoing attention from all who are a part of the community. It truly rests in the hearts and souls of all in the Bishop Hartley Community, and we owe a debt of gratitude to our alumni who established and nurtured the anchors which continue to keep us moored in our values and allow us to develop the necessary initiatives to move Bishop Hartley forward in the years to come.

COMMUNITY read

For the third year, Bishop Hartley students, faculty, and staff participated in a school-wide summer reading initiative. With program planning beginning in the fall of 2015, the first school-wide read was Outcasts United during the summer of 2016. In addition to promoting reading, the program is designed to encourage a shared, common experience among all students, faculty, and staff. This experience is also a way for faculty and staff to support reading by example. The committee selects works which connect to the school's yearly accreditation goal and, as such, allow for social, curricular, and service connections to the reading and promote empathy among and within all.

This year's selection was The Last Lecture by Randy Pausch. The book is Pausch's record of the final lecture he delivered as a professor at Carnegie Mellon University. The tradition of the last lecture of a tenured professor carried a reality for Pausch as he knew he was dying of pancreatic cancer. His lecture about achieving his childhood dreams became a lesson in how to live which he left for his three young children.

Students will have the opportunity to discuss the book and follow up with activities in all subject areas. In February, the mentor groups in our house system will participate in many different projects related to The Last Lecture. Faculty and staff began work during an October in-service day to lay groundwork for mentor group projects in February in which all students will participate. One of those will be the creation of a memory book in which they and all faculty and staff will share "words of wisdom," life lessons, and bible verses such as those Pausch shared in his book, including some of Pausch's own words which have become known to his readers as "Pauschisms."

The activity affords an opportunity for students to not only explore the lessons they have learned but to discuss the subject with family, faculty, and staff – the adults most important to them.

Since its inception, the school-wide read initiative has exposed students to different styles of literature and significant life lessons. Last year, students heard directly from Jamie Ford, the author of Hotel on the Corner of Bitter and Sweet, when he visited Bishop Hartley. We recently learned that the author of our first all-school read Outcasts United, Luma Mufleh, has opened a Fugees School in Columbus. We have reached out to her to explore the possibilities for follow up on that first effort which has had such an impact on many of those who read it.

VISION

TRANSFORMING LIVES
THROUGH EXCELLENCE IN CATHOLIC EDUCATION

WE PROVIDE A SAFE, CLEAN & COMFORTABLE CAMPUS

Bishop Hartley High School families, alumni and friends make our community amazing. The other vital component to our quality education is our facilities. We know that a safe, clean, and comfortable environment is paramount to a child's educational experience. Through thoughtful planning, we have renovated and built "best in class" educational facilities.

OUR FACILITIES ENHANCE THE STUDENTS' EVERYDAY LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

Since 1999, virtually every space on the Hartley campus has been rebuilt, renovated, or created anew. From the centerpiece chapel which serves both literally and figuratively as the heart of our school, to the renovated main office, gymnasium, and cafeteria, the public areas of the school provide a warm and welcoming environment for all.

WE CONTINUE TO ENHANCE OUR FACILITIES FOR OUR STUDENTS

As we continue to deliver the best quality Catholic education in Central Ohio, we look at what matters most: the safety of our students and the ability to create more opportunity for growth. This Vision campaign will enable us to do both while providing the means to utilize current facilities in more efficient and diverse ways.

Build a multi-purpose facility/auxiliary gymnasium. This will allow for the following:	Expand the Dick Geyer Gymnasium entrance to include a student commons area. This improvement will provide the following:
• On-campus retreat center; • Athletic facilities for Hartley and feeder schools; • Additional classrooms and group meeting space; • New state-of-the-art weight room; and, • Elimination of late team practices and club meetings.	• Location for tutoring and study tables; • Safe haven for students before and after school; • Reception and concession area; • House System group meeting area; and, • Bishop Hartley High School museum.

These enhancements provide additional space and allow us to utilize existing facilities to their full potential by relocating many events. This will get students home from extracurricular activities earlier.

YOU CAN SHARE THE VISION THROUGH YOUR PLEDGE

Please prayerfully consider making a gift. Pledge payments may be paid over three years. Please make checks payable to: Bishop Hartley Capital Campaign. All gifts are tax-deductible by law. Bishop Hartley High School is a non-profit corporation under IRS Section 501 (c) (3). No goods or services have been provided as a result of this contribution. Gifts of stocks, securities, real estate, or property are welcome.

BISHOP HARTLEY HIGH SCHOOL

STUDENT services

Ever wonder what services Bishop Hartley offers its students? Here's a quick overview:

Bishop Hartley's Student Services Program takes a holistic approach to help support all students with their individual needs. Our program is divided into three departments: Student Health, Spiritual Formation, and Educational Services.

Bishop Hartley Student Services

Student Health

The Student Health department cares for students' physical needs through the School Nurse and mental needs through our Clinical Psychologist.

Spiritual Formation

The Spiritual Formation department is made up of our School Chaplain and Campus Minister. These representatives work together to assist students in faith formation.

Educational Services

The Educational Services department consists of five areas that strengthen students' academic performance by providing them with programs they need to succeed. These areas include: Test Preparation, School Psychology, The Notre Dame Program, Title I Services, and School Counseling.

Key Administrators and the representatives of the Student Services Program make up the student services team. These fifteen individuals meet once a week to discuss students receiving services to make sure they are receiving all the support and assistance they may need. The team also reviews any additional students who may need support from one of the departments and creates an action plan to help support the student. Students can receive services from multiple departments to ensure their success at Hartley and in the future.

STUDENT safety

How does Bishop Hartley ensure the safety of its students?

In his messages to parents, students, and alumni each year, Principal Mike Winters renews our commitment to providing the "security of a safe environment for everyone." As the issue of school safety becomes more prevalent in our world today, Bishop Hartley is taking a proactive approach in terms of our safety protocols.

More than five years ago, Walter (Lee) Distelzweig '69 joined our staff as part of the Advancement Office. A former Chief of Police for the city of Columbus and retired member of the Ohio Army National Guard, he soon began a review of our safety procedures and, after research and consultation with experts, made adjustments and additions both in terms of procedures and equipment. A familiar presence in our hallways, "Chief" as he is known to all, is constantly researching and revising our plans based on the latest national best practices.

Once our school day begins, we are always under a level 1 lockdown, which means that exterior doors are locked and visitors must be admitted through the main school doors. Throughout the day, administrators and others periodically walk through the hallways and on the grounds to make sure there is nothing out of the ordinary.

In addition, faculty and staff members are part of a three-year program which focuses on training. In the first year, those staff members who are considered first level (administrators, counselors, school nurse, and others) participated in a tabletop exercise which presented active shooter scenarios for consideration. All teachers and staff members underwent a functional exercise this fall with the help of two officers from the Columbus Police Department. Teachers were given a sense of what they might expect in the event of an actual lockdown situation and practical information about what to tell students to do or not do under those circumstances. Students continue to participate in routine lockdown level 1, 2, and 3 drills as part of our preparation just as they participate in routine fire and tornado drills. The next step in this process is an informative piece for parents.

While some of the changes we have made are noticeable, many are not. Each classroom now contains a "safety bag" which can be used in the event of a lockdown. It contains items such as bottled water, paper towels, medical gloves, peanut butter crackers (in case a diabetic student is in the room), and other items which would be needed in the event students must spend an extended period under lockdown. First aid equipment has been placed in strategic locations throughout the building, and lockdown protocols updated for those literally on both sides of the door.

None of us want to think of the unthinkable, but in today's world, we would be negligent if we ignored these issues. We are at the forefront of preparation while keeping in mind that, as in all matters, we must pray for the safety of all.

LEGENDARY educator

Kathy (Burns) Servick '71

Kathleen Burns Servick, BHHS Class of 1971, devoted 30 years to Bishop Hartley High School, as a dedicated teacher, advisor, mentor, and colleague.

After graduating from Bishop Hartley, she attended The Ohio State University and received her degree from Ohio Dominican College. As an English teacher, she guided all levels of students, sharing her passion for literature and writing. For over two decades, she was known as "the" freshman English teacher giving countless students a strong academic foundation as well as affection, acceptance, and encouragement.
Kathy's active support of students outside the classroom included serving as the cheerleading moderator from 1976-1979 and the National Honor Society advisor for many years. Students could count on her attendance at games, plays, and dances in addition to her participation in pep rallies, skits, and House events. Students saw her often in the traditional "Hawks on the Floor" before state championship games.

Kathy's colleagues also treasured her kindness and common sense advice, and especially valued her guidance as the Hartley representative for over 20 years to the Diocesan Professional Development Committee. She will continue in this role during her retirement.

Kathy Servick will always be a treasured member of the Bishop Hartley family. Her wish for her students each year is now the community's wish for her retirement:

"Go confidently in the direction of your dreams. Live the life you have imagined."
-Henry David Thoreau

Since graduating from Bishop Hartley in, Andrew Wisniewski '03 has had the blessing of living in South Carolina and Texas before returning to Columbus in late 2007. He worked in the construction, health care and protective services sectors for many of years since high school. While beginning higher education at Columbus State straightaway after high school, the journey of life led him to pursue a B.S. in Business Management online from California Coast University in Santa Ana, CA. Andrew graduated from there in 2012, while working in the insurance industry here in Columbus.

In 2013 a series of events brought about a conversion experience that led to three years of discerning religious life and ultimately the call to the priesthood. Andrew has been a seminarian at the Pontifical College Josephinum since the autumn of 2015 and is currently in the fourth year of a six-year course of study and formation toward ordination. Andrew says his experience years ago at Bishop Hartley helped to foster this vocation due to Hartley's emphasis on service and family. Andrew says there is no doubt, he was and will always be blessed to be a Hawk!

Class of 2011

Since graduating from Hartley, Chelsea Barnett '11 went on to college at Howard University to study Radio/TV/Film production. Not having prior knowledge of this field upon choosing her major, she took it upon herself to learn every aspect of the business, to find her niche. After a long journey of various internships in sales, on-air, event, and behind the scenes productions, she found a home in sales. Her first job was at a TV station as an account executive in Baltimore, MD. She then did freelance videography and web content creation in Atlanta, GA. Her current job is at an AV company here in Columbus as an account executive, where she meets the clients' needs in staging and production for corporate, organization and non-profit events. Chelsea is thankful to have had so much experience to find a career she loves and with which she can grow. She looks forward to meeting more people in Columbus with whom she can network, and hopefully some familiar faces as well!

Class of 2014

Tiffany Steel '14 has recently accepted a position as an on-air personality for K98.5 in Waterloo, Iowa. She will be co-host the morning show and host the midday hours. K98.5 is part of the larger Townsquare Media group. Tiffany went on air in November; you can listen to Tiffany live HERE.

HALL OF FAME induction

The 5th annual Hall of Fame weekend began Friday, October 19, 2018 with an amazing win for our Hartley football team over North Canton Hoover 45-38. At half-time, we introduced this year's inductees and their families. It was a special night at which our 1976 girls' basketball team sang cheers and danced on the 50-yard line. Saturday was the annual dinner and ceremony to honor our inductees. Over 130 guests including alumni, family, staff, and friends filled the Dick Geyer gymnasium for a wonderful evening. This year's inductees included Dr. Mike Gilliland – 1974 Basketball, Dr. Randall Sampson – 1992 Football, Coach Kevin Ryan – 1981-2002 Cross Country & Track and the 1976 Girls' State Championship Basketball Team.

NEW WRESTLING FACILITY TO BE NAMED IN HONOR OF DOUG BLUBAUGH

As construction of the new multi-use facility nears its end, we look to the next phase of the project. With athletes housed in a new weight room/workout facility, our current weight room will be renovated to become the new home of the Bishop Hartley wrestling program, moving our wrestlers out of the room in the basement where they have been housed for many years.

The new facility will be known as The Douglas Blubaugh Wrestling Facility, named for the 1960 Olympic wrestling champion and 1979 National Wrestling Hall of Fame Inductee. Bishop Hartley alumnus, Kevin Walsh '80, his wife Connie, and their family, kicked off this portion of the capital campaign with a donation to secure naming rights to the facility. He chose to name it after his mentor and friend to honor his significant contributions to the world-wide wrestling community. Kevin is Senior Vice President, Portfolio Manager with Merrill Lynch in Columbus and he and his team manage $1.1 billion in assets. He has been in this industry for over 35 years.

Walsh feels that the wrestling program at Bishop Hartley which he participated in as a student, is a championship caliber program under current coach, Kevin Petrella '03, and deserves a facility of the same caliber.

We will share more information about Doug Blubaugh, our wrestling facility namesake, in the months to come as we move closer to the dedication of the facility.

For more information about the capital campaign for this facility and other aspects of our Vision Campaign, please contact Development Director, Tiffiney Hatem at 614.237.5421 or thatem@cdeducation.org.
